COMMENT OF THE DAY

Egypt And The Sudan

NDICATIVE of the growing interest of the United States in the Anglo-Egyptian dispute is the revention that washington has submitted to London a suggested compromise measure aimed particularly at permitting an agreement between Britain and Egypt over the Sudan. The Sudanese problem, while part of the Anglo-Egyptian dispute, possesses distinct characteristics. At stake is the future sovereign status of the Sudan and the degree of self-government the Sudanese are to be permitted. Egypt and Britain have contrasting ideas of what tenregents self government. The Egyptian proposals would subject all more important branches of the Khartoum Administration to the control of Cairo; the Anglo-Sudanese proposals promise a system of selfgovernment separated from by certain transitional introduced

The China Mail, through London agents, has made preliminary arrangements with Max Faulkner, British Open Golf Champion, and Ryder Cup player, to write a series of 16 instructional articles, which will be illustrated by special photos of the author in action.

For China Mail

During the Easter holidays, Max Faulkner visited Hongkong and delighted hundreds of golf enthusiasts at Fanling with displays of his prowess, and we are sure that Mr Faulkner's instructional articles will be read with considerable pleasure and benefit by everybody in Hongkong who is in any way interested in the game of golf.

Max Faulkner enjoys a unique position in the golfing world. Not only as the British Open Champion and Master Golfer, but for his forceful play, no small part of which is his individual style of driving, which he so brilliantly demonstrated at Fanling last Saturday and Monday.

The China Mail hopes to be in a position to start the Max Faulkner series at the end of April, and local golfers are advised to watch for the first of his enlightening

First Skirmishes In Parliament Over Supreme Court Bill Malan Under Heavy Fire

Capetown, Apr. 15. Dr. T. E. Donges, Minister of the Interior, today accused the Opposition of letting loose powers which it would not be able to control by its attitude to Premier Daniel Malan's proposal to curb the powers of the Supreme Court.

Earlier, Opposition leader J. G. N. Strauss had declared the Government's racial policy would lead to anarchy and

The Government and Opposition clashed during a debate at the reassembly of Parliament today on Dr Malan's proposal which would deprive South African courts of the right to test the constitutional legality of Acts of Parliament.

WITHEN the American team won W the world championship for the second year in succession it was no great surprise to those of us who know what a magnificent game our men play. Today's hand, played by Samuel M. Staymon, of New York, one of the members of the team, indicates what care they give to the play of the cards.

Six diamonds would have been a better contract than six spades, but it happened that North was a rather erratic player, so Stayman preferred to take his chances at six spades rather than allow North to take six diamonds. west opened the king of clubs, dunmy winning with the acc. Stayman next cashed the king of hearts and entered his hand with the sec of spades to discard dummy's remaining club on the ace of hearts.

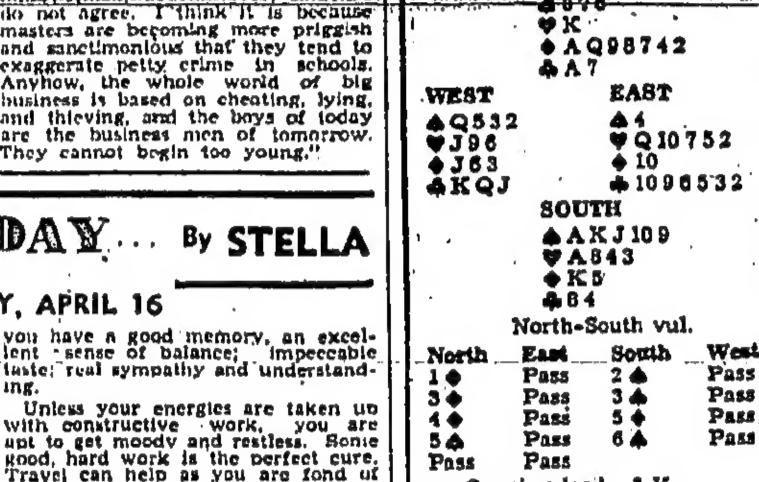

The average player would no relay down the king of spades, intending to draw the last trump if the outern of spades happened to draw. The plan would work it the trumps happened to be 3-2, but the action 4-1 frump break would be fatal.

South would be unable to lead a wide open, so he would have to West to make a small trump as well Sam Stayman was more cautious. He led the jack of sondes instead of the king, if West took his queen, Sam could draw trumps in safety and make the rest of the tricks with duminy's diamonds.

West rose to the occasion by re-fusing to take his queen of spades. Now declarer could not draw trumps, Sam also rose to the occasion by ruffing a club with dummy's last that Sweden could mobilise a combat-ready army of 600,000 men within eight hours but that his country did not want to enter any military alliance in the present international situa-

Speaking to the Overseas Writers' Club here, Mr Erlander said that the overwhelming majority of the Swedish people endorsed the Government's policy of non-alliance.
The Premier said that the Swedish Air Force was considerable in size in relation to the size of the population.

"About 1,200 planes can almost immediately take the air," "About half of them are modern jets and that proportion is rapidly increasing by our own production." He said that the consideration for the continuance of Finland's independence, which had immediate strategical impact on Sweden's defence problem,

"plays an important part in our thinking." Mr Erlander, who is making an informal visit to the United States, tras met President Tru-man and the Secretary of State, Mr Dean Achecon .- Reuter.

Business American Expansion

Washington, Apr. 15. American business plans to spend a record sum for new factories and equipment this year but conditions are not as healthy as this indicates.

The main proponent of the expansion boom is the defence programme. Non-defence business is actually slipping a little.

BIG POLICY

Margate, England, Apr. 15. One of Britain's big unions today overwhelmingly supported the policy of reducing the nation's arms programme propagated by Mr Ancurin Bevan, a Labour Party leader.

The annual conference of the 348,000 strong Union of Shop, Distributive and Allied Workers meeting here passed a resolution calling for the arms drive to be re-examined and scaled down. Only about 12 hands were raised against the motion.

The draft was believed contain Japanese compromises on several issues: I. Calling the trenty one of rather than "amity",".

2. Provisions for at least some forms of reparations. Recognition of Nationalist China on the same status as Allied Powers under terms of the Japanese peace treaty.

Observers said the compromises made by the chief Japanese negotiator in Taipeh, Mr Isao Kawada, weakened the Japanese stand as expressed in Mr Yoshida's letter to the American Special Ambassador, Mr John Foster Dulles, in December.

They said Mr Yoshida once before, when a treaty signing appeared imminent near the end of March, "threw a spanner in the works.

Then he was reported to have nullified the Japanese compromises in Taipeh by issuing fresh instructions to Mr Kawada not to depart from the spirit of the December letter .-- Reuter.
